

So, What's New

So, what is new? I was asked today,
I thought quickly, what to say.

Should I talk about an ache or pain?
Or maybe the coming trip on the train.

Do I mention the same old familiar talk?
Mimicking the sound of a parrot's squawk.

Should I just tell of the same old stuff,
Or just try to pretend hiding a bluff.

Should I say I have new found hope?
I have a new life a new way to cope!

What will he say when he hears?
Will he be happy or speak jeers?

So, what's new today? I want to shout,
I'm free, it amazing, I have no doubt!

Let me tell you, my shame is gone,
I have new mercy each and every dawn.

My shame, my guilt, my sin is under the blood,
I am rescued and cleansed from death's mud.

I was ransomed, forgiven my life's debt was paid,
From God's loving heart, my redemption was made.

Hearts are hungry for this message of hope!
People are weary as they wander and grope.

Our message brings love joy and light,
To restore and make whole is Jesus' delight.

So next time when someone ask "What's new?"
Tell them, "Sit down I have some great news for you!"
